BLACK GOLD (ACTIVATED CARBON)

Activated charcoal is a fine black powder made from bone char, coconut shells, peat, petroleum coke, coal, olive pits or sawdust. The charcoal is "activated" by processing it at very high temperatures. The high temperatures change its internal structure, reducing the size of its pores and increasing its surface area. This results in a charcoal that is more porous than regular charcoal. Activated charcoal shouldn't be confused with charcoal briquettes that are used to light your barbecue. While both can be made from the same base materials, charcoal briquettes have not been "activated" at high temperatures. Moreover, they contain additional substances that are toxic to humans.

APPLE CIDER VINEGAR

Apple cider vinegar is the most popular type of vinegar in the natural health community. Apple cider vinegar can help you lose weight, lower blood sugar levels, improve insulin sensitivity, help fight diabetes and reduced risk of heart disease. Apple cider vinegar is said to ease some types of heartburn, acid reflux, and digestive conditions like constipation. Vinegar is used as a food preservative and studies show that it inhibits bacteria from growing in food and spoiling it. Apple cider vinegar can be used in skin care as a toner, face wash, and even a spot treatment. Tightening the cells of the skin can also help to strengthen the skin and prevent wrinkles from forming. Attempting to reduce the number of bacteria on the skin is a huge step in treating and controlling acne. Exfoliation is an important skin care process that removes old, dead skin cells. The malic acid in apple cider vinegar may help it remove the outermost layer of skin.

It is made from a special bean called Peaberry. It's a high quality pea-shaped bean formed by the fusion of the two sides of the flower, thereby leaving only one bean in the cherry as opposed to two in all other coffee crops. This unique characteristic gives the bean a distinct flavor and taste, which is much different from the other coffee beans. Due to its natural complexity, Peaberry is very rare. It contributes to only 5% to 10% of the total production.
